Dear Industry Professional,

In my 25+ years in the business world few people from the publishing community have ever really made a very good impression on me. However a number of years ago I met Art House who had a vision for making a difference in the property management , construction, and related affiliated industries, by publishing a perodical called Property Management & Construction Review. He expressed to me that his intention was to print pertinent, focused articles whose content would be both educating and (entertaining @ times).

Well, talk is usually very cheap so I figured I would take the wait and see approach. Surprise! Surprise! Some people actually attain what they set out to accomplish. Not only has Art accomplished what he set out to do with Property Management & Construction Review but, he is also setting new standards in connecting many affiliated professionals through all means of communications.

We at Integrity Services feel truly blessed to be a part of what Art and his organization are accomplishing for all of us.
